| SpaReply Med Spa Review + Local SEO Toolkit · editable copy Clinic: [Practice Name] · City: [City]

Thirteen Google Business Profile post angles and a short prompt pack for the treatment pages on your site. Pair each GBP post with one real, non-stock image of your treatment area, your team, or your front desk. No patient images, no before/after that names a guest.

Cadence

- GBP posts: 1–2 per week. Don't bunch them on one day.
 - Treatment-page edits: one page per month, paired with the GBP post that links to it.
 - Photo refresh: three new clinic photos per month, descriptive filenames.

13 GBP post angles

1. Spring glow plan

Spring glow plan in [City]: Hydrafacial + LED finishing — three weekly slots open this week. Members save 15%. Booking link in our profile.

2. Pre-event prep

Wedding, reunion, or photoshoot on the calendar? Our practice manager can map a 4–6 week prep timeline that fits around the event — no surprises, no rush. Reply or book a consult to start.

3. Membership spotlight

Our [City] membership covers a monthly facial, member-only injector pricing, and priority booking for laser packages. The math works for guests who come in more than once a quarter. Details in profile.

4. Provider spotlight (no clinical claims)

Meet [Provider first name] — [years] years of aesthetic experience, conservative philosophy, and a calm bedside manner. Booking with [Provider first name] is open Wednesday and Friday afternoons.

5. Behind the scenes · sterile prep

Treatment-room turnover at our [City] clinic: sterile prep, fresh linens, and a 10-minute reset between every guest. The reason your visit feels calm is because the back-of-house runs on a clock.

6. FAQ · what to expect at a first consult

First consult at [Practice Name]: 30 minutes, no pressure, full pricing on paper before you decide anything. We'd rather you book the right plan than the most expensive one. Open consults this week.

7. Local trust · neighborhood mention

Two blocks from [local landmark], parking validated for guests in the [neighborhood] garage. We see a lot of our neighbors — bring a referral and you both get a treatment credit.

8. Education · skin-prep without selling

Three habits that make any treatment work better: SPF every morning, a gentle retinoid at night, and hydration the day before your visit. Save this post — the front desk gets asked weekly.

9. Off-season offer

Laser packages are most effective in the cooler months. Booking now means starting your series before [month] and finishing before summer. Membership pricing applies — message us for the plan.

10. Holiday gift card

Gift cards in any amount, instant email delivery, no expiration. The most-redeemed denomination is $150 — covers a Hydrafacial or starts a membership month. Buy through our profile.

11. Re-engagement · we miss you

Haven't been in since spring? Your skin's needs change with the seasons. Our practice manager can review what worked last time and recommend a refreshed plan — no fee for the review call.

12. Trust signal · review-driven

What guests in [City] tell us most often: the visit felt calm, the pricing was clear, and the team listened. That's the standard. Read more in our reviews — and let us know how we can do better.

13. Seasonal facial focus

Cooler air, drier skin: this month's facial focuses on barrier repair — gentle exfoliation, peptide boost, and a calming mask. 50-minute appointment, member pricing applies. Book through our profile.

Treatment-page outline · copy/paste

Use this outline for each treatment page on the [Practice Name] site. The goal is to answer the questions a [City] guest already asks in reviews and in consult calls.

1. What it is, in plain language — one paragraph, no marketing.
 2. Who it's a fit for — three to five short bullets, written as guest-facing language ("you" not "patients").
 3. What to expect at the visit — appointment length, comfort level, downtime, follow-up cadence.
 4. Pricing range — give a range, not "starting at." If you offer a membership, name what it changes.
 5. Provider notes — which providers at [Practice Name] perform this, and how to book with a specific one.
 6. FAQ — six questions pulled from real review responses and consult notes. Plain answers, no clinical claims.
 7. Internal links — link to the membership page, two related treatment pages, and the consult-booking page.
 8. GBP linkback — the treatment page should be linked from the GBP services list and from at least one GBP post per quarter.

City / neighborhood angles

If you serve more than one neighborhood, write one short page per area — not a thin "[Practice Name] [neighborhood]" copy-paste. Each page should answer:

- Who you serve there — the typical guest profile in plain language.
 - Where you are — landmark, parking, transit. No address only.
 - Provider hours for that area — if certain providers are in-clinic on certain days.
 - What's specific to that neighborhood — a memberships angle, a local partnership, a specific pre-event prep cadence (wedding venues, conference hotels, photographers).

What not to write on a GBP post or treatment page

- No before/after photos of named guests.
- No "results last [N] months" outcome claims unless your providers approved the wording.
- No "FDA-approved" language for off-label uses.
- No "the only [X] in [City]" language unless you can prove it on Monday.
- No staff scope language ("our top injector") on the GBP post — keep it on the treatment page where it can be qualified.
